MG 2014 -Drive into a Gilded Past

By John and Margaret Lester

MG 2014 (NAMGBR event) was held in French Lick, Indiana, from June 15th to June 18th. The weather, while initially not promising turned out to be days of sunshine although a little hot for some people.

We did not stay at the French Lick Resort Hotel but since we had towed Noddy (our 1980 MGB) behind our motor home from Tampa FL, we chose to stay at Spring Mills State Park in Mitchell, about 20 miles north of French Lick. Mitchell is the birthplace of Gus Grissom, and the park has a very informative museum featuring the actual Gemini III capsule which Grissom designed and piloted on its 81,000 mile flight around the earth in 1965. The exhibits cover his small town boyhood to the 1967 tragedy of Apollo 1. Our decision turned out well as one of the functions on Monday was dinner at Spring Mills State Park Lodge - we did not have too far to drive home after that event.

French Lick Resort and West Baden Springs (site of the 2015 Senior PGA event) are part of the same company. Both resorts had multimillion dollar restorations quite recently - hence the reference to the "Gilded Past." West Baden Springs Resort in particular had fallen into decay and part of the hotel had actually fallen down before a local philanthropist stepped in to finance the restoration. West Baden Springs' glass domed atrium is spectacular, a circular atrium hundreds of feet across, six stories high, with rooms and balconies overlooking the central mosaic floor. We took a guided tour of this resort and the restoration was very impressive.

Sunday was registration, Silent Auction viewing and bidding, meet and greet reception and basically talking to anyone that would listen. We were pleased to see our friends, Jeff and Jan Zorn back in business, Jeff looking fit after his recent surgery.

Monday saw a 2-hour tech session on Restoring Rostyle Wheels and Rubber Bumpers - my wife says she is now ready to take on this duty on our car. For dinner this evening many of the drivers caravanned through the twisting country roads to Spring Mills State Park Lodge, with a stop at a drive-in movie on the return journey.

Tuesday a bus load of folks went on a all day trip to Nashville, Indiana, a craft and antique town, while many attended the tech sessions, MGB V8s, John Twists rolling tech session. The first thing John does to all cars as they roll into his tent is to check the timing. On every car that I saw there the timing was out from his recommended 32 degrees before TDC at 3000 rpm. People also had got parts on upside down, the wrong way round etc. John can do a complete tune up, timing mixture, tappets etc in 5 minutes and the car is running better. After watching John's session for a few hours I went to What makes the MGB such a great Car? Very Interesting.

Wednesday was the Car Show Day. 367 gleaming MGBs on display. Wow! I think that I should take a car cover for mine as I am not in the same league as these guys! We did see a few of the newer mid engine Chinese MGs there. Wednesday evening was the Awards Banquet which so well attended that they ran out of desserts after only a few tables. Barry Humphrey and his wife Joyce won the popular vote for 78 to 80 MGBs with his 1980 red absolutely gorgeous MGB. He won first prize at Dillard GA in 2012 and also 2nd prize at the All British at Safety Harbor FL in 2013. He drives this car from Massachusetts to all the events. He is moving from Massachusetts to Tampa, FL and I gave him info an the Florida Suncoast MG Car Club so that he can join us. We drove back to Spring Mills State Park in the dark sad that everything was over and wishing for brighter headlights on the MGB!

The Toronto MG club will be hosting MG 2015 and promises us an exciting convention, featuring "The Magic in Niagara Falls." Be sure to get those passports ready!

Degree in Automobile Restoration at McPherson College

For those who think the automotive restoration hobby is of no interest to today's youth, McPherson College in McPherson, Kansas, would beg to differ. As the only school in the country offering a four-year degree in Automotive Restoration, McPherson's program combines the hands-on approach of shorter programs with the benefit of a comprehensive liberal arts education. Recognizing that its sole-source advantage may not last forever, and in an effort to maintain its appeal to the next generation of restorers, the college has undertaken an effort to improve and upgrade the Automotive Restoration Program with new hardware and a sharpened focus from its faculty. - See more at: <http://blog.hemmings.com/index.php/2014/07/15/mcpherson-college-overhauls-its-four-year-automotive-restoration-program/?refer=news#sthash.GbyaVEnx.dpuf>

The need for process improvement was identified last September, when the institution held its first-ever strategic planning meeting for the Automotive Restoration Program. Rather than involving only faculty and college administration, the off-site conference included participants like Jonathan Klinger of Hagarty Insurance (a McPherson graduate); Paul Russell of European restoration specialist Paul Russell and Company; Scott George of The Collier Collection; and Adam Bank of Rad Rides by Troy. Though the college views its existing curriculum as solid, the focus of the planning meeting was on improving the program to better predict changes to the industry in the coming years, in order to best shape a program relevant to student needs. - See more at: <http://blog.hemmings.com/index.php/2014/07/15/mcpherson-college-overhauls-its-four-year-automotive-restoration-program/?refer=news#sthash.GbyaVEnx.dpuf>

To experience what world-class shops collections do differently, the college sent a team of seven faculty, two students and two advisers (one of whom will be joining the staff this fall) to tour a series of facilities and collections in California. The shop tour consisted of visits to Competition Touring Cars, McGee Motor Sports and John Anderson Racing Services, all located at Sonoma Raceway. Next, the team visited Daryl Hollenbeck's Vintage Color Studio, followed by stops at Phil Reilly & company (vintage car repair), Moal Coachbuilders, Roy Brizio's Street Rods, and Canepa Design. The private collections toured included those held by John Bertolotti, Arturo Keller, John Mozart and Larry Carter, where the team got to experience everything from brass-era cars through contemporary race cars. Given that the school trains students to work in a variety of automotive-themed careers, such a diverse approach to program development makes good sense: While many program graduates pursue hands-on careers in auto restoration, others go to work for auction houses, automotive collections or insurance companies, bringing with them a unique perspective on the industry as a whole. McPherson students have even participated in The Great Race, where this year's team captured the X-Cup (aimed at those in auto-themed school programs) for the second time in two years. - See more at: <http://blog.hemmings.com/index.php/2014/07/15/mcpherson-college-overhauls-its-four-year-automotive-restoration-program/?refer=news#sthash.GbyaVEnx.dpuf>

The key to any automotive restoration program is giving the students the right tools to train on, and McPherson is looking to make key improvements in this area as well. Updates are planned for the engine lab, including a new engine dynamometer; although Automotive Restoration Program vice president Amanda Gutierrez pointed out that this is still in process. The metals lab has just received a Pullmax P5 power hammer, and judging from the school's Facebook feeds, it's been all hands on deck this summer in an attempt to get labs and work benches refurbished in time for the fall semester. - See more at: <http://blog.hemmings.com/index.php/2014/07/15/mcpherson-college-overhauls-its-four-year-automotive-restoration-program/?refer=news#sthash.GbyaVEnx.dpuf>

The school even recognizes the need for faculty professional development, though given the unusual focus of its programs, off-the-shelf continuing education hardly applies. Instead, McPherson is examining the possibility of short-term paid internships, where faculty would be given the opportunity to work for shops, collections or even museums to gain real-world experience. Such programs would cost the college a considerable amount of money, and as a non-profit, funding for any program needs to be raised in advance. - See more at: <http://blog.hemmings.com/index.php/2014/07/15/mcpherson-college-overhauls-its-four-year-automotive-restoration-program/?refer=news#sthash.GbyaVEnx.dpuf>

As for the hardware upgrades to the program's labs, the same constraints apply. Per Gutierrez, one of the school's biggest challenges is balancing upgrades that are needed immediately with upgrades that fit in the budget; as a non-profit, the college is always looking for participation and support from equipment vendors. Giving the students the right equipment to work on is a key component of McPherson's focus on excellence, as the ultimate goal of the Auto Restoration Program is equipping students to work at the highest level in their chosen automotive fields.
